Welcome

While much has changed in the global economy in the recent years, projects remain the essential vehicle to deliver change, to get things done, to create value and to drive economic progress.

As new challenges reshape the current business environment, selecting, prioritizing and delivering the right projects that directly support the strategy of the organisation has never been more important.

Founded in 1989, the Institute of Project Management was the first Irish organisation promoting specialised project management education, certification, membership and research.

Recognised internationally as a premier certification authority, our goal is to provide you with the skills and expertise you need to ensure the organisation is fit for the future through the successful delivery of projects.

Why study with the Institute?

In the last 30+ years, the Institute has been actively engaged and involved in bringing to Ireland world-class certification programmes offered by globally recognised project management certification organisations – International Project Management Association (IPMA) and Project Management Institute (PMI).

The Institute's founder – Edward Naughton – was the first Irish resident to acquire the Project Management Professional (PMP) certifica tion awarded by PMI and a former Vice President of the IPMA.

Our direct involvement with the international project management community places the Institute in a unique position to give you and your organisation the capability to adopt and maximise the best project management has to offer.

Working closely with a faculty of expert practitioners and leading academics, the Institute promotes the very best current practice, theory and applied skills in project individuals and organisations worldwide.

Advance your career with Professional Body Certifications

Validate your competence with leading international professional body certifications to ensure your practice is up to the most recent industry standards. Maximise your earning potential with credentials that really count.

IPMA

Founded in 1965, the International Project Management Association (IPMA) is the world's first professional project management association. Based in the Netherlands and recognised in 73+ countries across 6 continents, IPMA certifications serve as an unbiased endorsement of your project management knowledge and expertise.

Project Management Institute.

The Project Management Institute (PMI) is widely recognised as one of the world's leading associations for the project management profession. Based in the USA, PMI's professional resources and research empower members, credential holders and volunteers worldwide to enhance their careers and improve their organisations' success.

Scrum.org

Scrum.org certifications serve as global recognition of one's knowledge about the Scrum framework. Possessing knowledge about Scrum is helpful in applying adaptive solutions for complex problems and allows for the production and delivery of products that are of the highest possible value.

PRINCE2®

The globally recognized PRINCE2 Foundation certification is managed and accredited by Axelos in partnership with PeopleCert. PRINCE2 is one of the most in-demand certifications worldwide. With over 1,000,000 PRINCE2 Certification holders in more than 150 countries in a range of roles and sectors, the PRINCE2 credential has successfully proved and maintained its value over the years.

DUBLIN
TECHNOLOGICAL UNIVERSITY DUBLIN

Technological University Dublin (TU Dublin) is Ireland's first technological university, with a history stretching back to 1887. TU Dublin has 100,000+ graduates who are making their careers in Ireland and 70 countries worldwide.

European Qualifications Framework

IPM's professional diplomas offer access to The European Qualifications Framework (EQF) Level 6 & Level 7 Special Purpose Awards (15 Credits) which are equivalent to The Framework for Higher Education Qualifications in England (FHEQ) Level 6 & Level 7. Special Purpose Awards were developed for purpose-specific learning achievements.

Why Certification

It is important to distinguish between project management education and professionally accredited project management certification.

Accredited certification is a reflection of the application of competence while education focuses more heavily on the acquisition of knowledge.

Certification validates you as a competent practitioner, upgrades your status as an internationally accredited professional, provides a global standard for organisational competence and the tools to achieve better project results.

It gave me confidence to move forward in my career

Fantastic courses provided by a diverse team who specializes in different aspects of Project Management. It gave me confidence to move forward in my career as a project manager and, having recently recertified, they are an organization I trust.

Niall Gilligan

A beneficial asset to your CV

Great course, well run and delivered. I would highly recommend as a beneficial asset to your CV. The lectures and material are excellent, and it was a pleasure to attend on a weekly basis.

Ciara Buckley

Fantastic online learning experience

Fantastic online learning experience, felt like a classroom, course content and layout was super. Thanks for a brilliant delivery of Agile learning.

Siobhan Dreelan

An excellently run Institute

An excellently run Institute. From my first day to the end, I found the whole experience very worthwhile and thoroughly enjoyed it. I found the course content in PM very relevant to my role as an engineer and would recommend it to anyone!

David Walsh

Learnings were immediately transferable to the workplace

Fantastic course. For me, this was my first academic experience where all the learnings were immediately transferable to the workplace. The course provided a strong understanding of the Project Management discipline.

Alan O'Brien

It helped me secure a new job

Highly recommended. Quality lecturers and course material. I upskilled by doing the project management diploma and it helped me secure a new job.
